What is the Havasupai Promise Scholarship?
This program was established by the Arizona Board of Regents and is open to eligible Havasupai tribal members who have been admitted as full-time, degree-seeking students at an ABOR university (Arizona State University, Northern Arizona University and the University of Arizona).

Eligible Havasupai tribal members include all currently enrolled members of the Havasupai Tribe and their enrolled children from family households, as well as the children of the individual plaintiffs who were parties to the March 2010 settlement agreement with ABOR.

The Havasupai Promise Scholarship program covers admitted undergraduate recipients for full-time enrollment for five consecutive academic years (fall and spring) and admitted graduate recipients for full-time enrollment for three consecutive academic years (fall and spring). This scholarship program will provide a total of 30 undergraduate scholarships (with a maximum of four new awards per year across the three ABOR universities) and a total of five graduate scholarships.

What does the program cover?
Education costs covered by the program include tuition, mandatory fees and standard allowances for room and board, plus books and supplies. These items are estimated “direct costs.”

Additional “indirect costs,” such as transportation, parking permit, loan fees and other personal expenses, are not covered by the program.

Eligibility requirements
Eligible Havasupai students are required to apply for other non-loan financial aid offered by the university, federal and state agencies. Financial support from these sources will make up a part of the Havasupai Promise Scholarship. Accordingly, students must complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid that is available every year on October 1 at fafsa.gov.

Financial documents, necessary for verification purposes, will need to be submitted to the appropriate university financial aid office by the required deadlines; for specific information on university financial aid deadlines, please reach out to the appropriate university contact indicated in this brochure.

Renewal
In addition to meeting admission requirements, Havasupai Promise Scholarship recipients must meet eligibility renewal requirements for continued enrollment and continued scholarship support in subsequent years. Students must maintain good standing per the academic requirements of the student’s university and degree program.

How does the program work?
1. A budget of your estimated direct cost of attendance is created. This includes:
   - A. Actual tuition and mandatory fees.
   - B. Standardized allowance for housing and meals.
   - C. Standardized allowance for books and supplies.

   Your estimated cost of attendance is determined in accordance with federal regulations. Each university develops its own standardized allowances and applies them consistently to all students.

2. The estimated direct costs are covered by a combination of gift aid from federal, state, private and institutional sources. The gift aid will be a combination of scholarships and grants (e.g., Pell Grants, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant, Leveraging Educational Assistance Partnership Grants, institutional grants and scholarships).

3. Your total cost of attendance includes indirect costs, such as transportation and personal items. However, these items are not covered under the program.
